Dear Jon,

Not long after we spoke today I heard from a L.A. reporter, who had heard it on an L.A. station last week, of a "Mark Lane item you carried. Copyrighted, he said.

Sorry I didn't think to ask you when we spoke.

I'd like to have as complete a file as possible on the current carryings on and what they may lead to.

Especially on Lane and what he says, as I think you know.

He has been an integral part of the wrecking, of every misdirection of every official investigation, even in a sense the Warren Commission, with which he played cheap and dirty games. But really beginning with Garrison.

The insanity of it all is past easy comprehension.

In Washington last week he actually said on a radio show that if we could just subject JFK's missing brain to neutron-activation analysis it would show the direction from which the bullet came.

That is more than the Commission's magic.

On a Pittsburgh program on the 15th he went farther than in the Newsworld story you sent me (again thanks, and I've mailed one to Les):

"A few weeks ago I went to Memphis, Tenn. and spent some time looking at the death of Martin Luther King. I uncovered some remarkable information, came back and briefed the members of the Black Caucus..." With names.

So, with anything you may see, I would like to include Zodia's copy.

Thanks and best,
